

However, consumers still want human interaction for advice on complex products and to register a complaint

How important is it to you that each of the following services is offered in your main bank's branches in the future?

